

WIKAI USA Begins Consolidation of Diaphragm Seals Division

October 24, 2019

Lawrenceville, GA – All WIKAI USA Diaphragm Seals Production Moving to Pasadena, Texas

As a part of WIKAI USA's ongoing effort to streamline production and provide excellent customer service, the WIKAI Diaphragm Seals Division is beginning the process of consolidating all diaphragm seals production, repair, and re-calibration services under one roof in Pasadena, Texas, adjacent to the Houston Ship Channel. Currently, diaphragm seals are produced in both Lawrenceville, Georgia and Houston, Texas.

This consolidation will enable the Diaphragm Seals Division to focus on providing uniform quality across the product family, as all production and quality control will be under the same roof. Additionally, customers wishing to visit the diaphragm seals production facility will no longer have to travel to two locations, saving both time and travel expenses.

This move is taking place over the next few months, with the Houston facility moving to its new home first in the middle of November. The Lawrenceville facility's move is currently planned for the end of December. This staggered timeline ensures the continuation of manufacturing and services throughout the move over the next few months, and was planned with our customers in mind.
